The contents of this text reflect the authors' nearly three decades of experience in the field of education as elementary and special education teachers and supervisors, teacher educators, educational consultants, re-searchers, and as the authors of numerous articles and eight other texts. Their experiences led to the purposeful design of this text's layout and content; namely, that teachers at all grade levels need assistance that is straightforward, easy to implement, and realistic for the variety of classroom settings and problem behaviors with which they are confronted. The text content is largely drawn from eclectic, research-based as well as common sense and practical knowledge bases, and the text is "reader-friendly" and replete with easy-to-implement, concrete, specific suggestions. Teaching and Learning in Middle and Secondary Schools Clifford H. Edwards 2005 For undergraduate and graduate courses in Middle and Secondary Methods. Hoping to promote teacher excellence and involve teachers in school improvement, this author proffers the learning community approach as a model for how schools can best educate students. Through an emphasis on the National Board of Professional Teaching standards, strong discussion of technology, and examination of the special challenges facing middle and secondary schools, he easily bridges the gap between the theories he advocates and actual classroom practice.
